

THRESHFIELD PRIMARY SCHOOL

NEWSLETTER 20.05.2022

Headteacher's Message

SATs are nearly over and we can all breathe again! This week, I have been supporting the Year 2 SATs and collecting the results from the other year groups. I can honestly say that I am extremely proud of our children. They have all done so well and just taken it in their stride. No anxiety, no worry - just hard work and determination ☺

On this note, I think our staff deserve recognition too. It is really easy to forget what we have gone through this year. As a small school, with limited staff, this year has been extremely hard. This half-term marked a turning point of the year. Monday 25th April, was the first day this academic year that we have had a full staffing team and our day hasn't begun with trying to reorganise our day.

The Acorns

We have really enjoyed the sunshine this week and so have our sunflower and broad bean plants! We have been reading stories linked to The Queen this week as we look ahead to her platinum jubilee celebrations. After reading The Queen's Hat, reception have made fantastic 'Lost Hat' posters just in case it goes missing again! This story has been particularly popular as it let's us explore all the famous landmarks in London.

The Seedlings

The children of Seedlings class have been shown real resilience this week and we have been really proud of what they have achieved so far. Ms Boulton who has joined us for her university based placement has been working a little more with the children this week and the Seedlings have embraced her with open arms. They have enjoyed getting creative this week, making nature mandalas and Union Jack flags for the Queen's Jubilee celebrations.

The Saplings

As part of our Geography topic this week we have been using Google Earth to explore the region of Amazonas. The children were delighted to be using the new laptops to carry out research. We also used them to support our RE work this week on Hinduism. The children have been creating an imaginary island in English and have written some beautiful descriptions of a setting they have created.

The Oaks

As ever, we have had a busy week. Our trip on Tuesday was excellent. We visited the mosque in Skipton and spoke to Tahir who showed us around. It was very interesting and we learnt a lot. We ate our lunch in the park and then spent the afternoon at Skipton Castle. The weather was lovely and it was a great day.

Alice in Wonderland

We had some amazing visitors on Wednesday. Grassington Festival organised for a theatre company to visit school and perform Alice and Wonderland and then did a drama workshop afterwards. We all really enjoyed it.

The Queen's Jubilee Street Party

Our preparations are coming along nicely.

Our band has been rehearsing; the bouncy castles are ordered; the face paints have been taken out and all the teachers have been dusting off their party shoes - we are obviously celebrating the Queen's Jubilee and not the half term!

It is all systems go!
